ANOTHER KILLING.

The Story of Another Tragedy Comes From Macon.

THE ELKS' LODGE OF SORROW.

The Day in the Central City—Local and Personal Gossip of General Interest.

Macon, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—Bridges How was the scene of another murder last night. The victim, a negro named Tom Lane, died this morning at 7 o'clock, after lingering about twelve hours.

A election whisky and cards may be put down as the cause of the murder.

About 7 o'clock last night a bunch of negroes half drunk with election whisky congregated at the dive, kept by a white man named J. J. Goss, on Bridge Street. While it is difficult to get at the truth of the affair it may be put down as a settled fact that the men had been gambling.

A fuss got up between a negro boy named Lingo and another named Jim Mack. Lingo drew a heavy bar knife and made a rush for Mack, but Tom Lane, who seems to be the cause of the trouble, stepped between the two and received the blow intended for Mack.

He was struck on the left temple, the knife hitting him on the forehead. The wound was not serious, but it was badly hurt. He did not appear to be badly hurt, however, and was taken in a hack to Cheatham's drug store, where a plaster was put over the cut and he returned to the dive.

About 9 o'clock he began to feel worse and Goss sent him home in a hack. At that time he was unconscious.

No doctor was called until this morning, but before he could arrive the man was dead. He died at 7 o'clock this morning.

The dead negro lives on the corner of Oak and New streets, and is well known around town.

The two other negroes, Mack and Lingo, have skipped.

Coroner Knight postponed the inquest until this morning, on account of the difficulty of getting witnesses.

The B. P. O. E.

The memorial exercises of the Elks of Macon, held at the Academy of Music, at 3:30 o'clock this evening, were well attended and was very interesting.

The programme was well rendered in every particular. Rev. F. F. Reese, of Christ church, assisted.

Soldiers in Church.

The Macon Volunteers attended Christ church this morning, forty strong, rank and file.

The sermon preached by Rev. F. F. Reese, chaplain of the company, was most appropriate to the occasion. Captain Joseph E. Wells, the popular commander of the Volunteers, was at the head of his company on their annual church parade.

Scarlet Fever.

For the time being Wesleyan Female college is depopulated. About one hundred and twenty young ladies have gone home.

The cause of the exodus is a case of scarlet fever and it is thought that this will very seriously interfere with the Christmas examinations.

The solitary case in the college has been isolated and Dr. Buss has no fears that the infectious disease will be communicated to others.

There are about seven other cases in Macon of scarlet fever and some two or three cases of diphtheria. As soon as the young ladies recover from their sickness they will return to the college and their studies.

Music for the Library.

The Chimes of Normandy will be played on the 29th and 30th instant at the Academy of Music for the benefit of the public library.

Mr. Otto K. Ehrhardt has written to President High, of Washington, offering his services as a singer, and Mr. Ehrhardt, will himself perform the role of Saur.

Nearly all of the best singers in Macon have signified their willingness to assist in the performance. The books have been ordered and work is being done.

The suggestion has been made that the Macon Musical Association invite the Atlanta Opera Club to this city and unite with them in taking the musical season.

The people of Macon would appreciate the visit of the sweet singers from their sister city and the Macon Musical Association is doing their best to lend their aid to a worthy cause.

Some Heavy Sentences.

Today was sentence day in the superior court and those who have been found guilty during the first half of the criminal docket were finally disposed of by Judge Miller today.

Two white men were sent to the penitentiary for ten and twenty years each.

Ben Patton, convicted of highway robbery, was sent up for ten years.

Pink McMillan, on much the same charge, was sent away for twenty years.

Ray Kinye, larceny, six months or $50.

Lamb Kendrick, house breaking, twenty years.

Henry Twine, gambling and stealing, five years.

Henry Ivey, assault with attempt to murder, five years.

Will Dumas, assault and attempt to murder, six years.

John Brown, assault with attempt to murder, five years.

Ed McClelland, burglary, five years.

Dan Brady, burglary, five years.

William Phillips larceny, six months or $50.

The Macon Telegraph, under order of the court, issued today, is to be sold on January 12th. An upset price of $30,000 has been set upon by the lawyers in the case, and unless the price is bid the property will not be sold. The case of the creditors will be assigned and asking for the appointment of a receiver seeking all of the time of the court today, but is unfinished.

The Telegraph.

In the Telegraph of today there appears the following announcement:

Mr. J. R. Kennedy, formerly city editor of the Telegraph and since last spring Macon's representative of the Atlanta Constitution, will today resume his connection with this paper as managing editor. Mr. Kennedy will be in charge of the paper, local and general departments of the news and the management is confident that he will bring about a very great improvement.

This appointment is made under the recommendation of the board.

A country editor puts the old question in a new and interesting way. He says: "Brother, don't stop your paper because you don't agree with the editor. The last cabbage you sent in didn't agree with us, either, but we didn't drop you from our subscription list at that account."

A Georgia editor writes: "Wanted, a young lady who can run a typewriter without running the editor. We know we are not pretty, and sometimes go around with our suspenders down and our shoes off. If our corns hurt, that's our own business. This is a snap for some quiet, contented old lady who isn't afraid of home-made socks and red whiskers."

Editor Jim Brown, of the Newbern Herald and Advertiser, was a candidate for the postoffice at Newbern. Brother Brown is a good man, and has worked hard for the democratic cause, and his brother would not go unwarmed.

Third Party People Trying to Stir Up Race Prejudice.

AN APPEAL MADE TO THE NEGROES

By a Populist Organ in Taylor County—A Red-Hot Fight Down There. Some of Its Features.

Reynolds, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—The democrats of Taylor county are very much incensed at an article which appeared in last week's Populist trying to stir up race prejudice.

The article is one of the most incendiary published during the campaign and appeals directly to the negroes to oppose any man for office who fought in the Confederate army and that if they want fair elections they must put men in office who will give them a fair count.

The article is, indeed, a diabolical composition, and that every one may see it I give it here. It reads:

BOLEY'S BREAKS.

A Savannah Newspaper Makes a Sensation of Them.

IT SAYS THEY WERE VERY BAD BREAKS

A Woman Killed Her Cousin, Thinking He Was a Tramp—Savannah's Waterworks.

Savannah, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—The Looking Glass yesterday prints a story four columns long in regard to the forgeries and other doings of Henry Boley, of the firm of M. Boley & Son, of which mention has been made in The Constitution.

That paper claims that within a year Boley has secured nearly $150,000 from fire insurance, his wife and his mother-in-law's securities, forgeries and endorsements and that today all that can be found is the business appraised at $35,000.

This leaves over a hundred thousand dollars of which nothing can be ascertained. The paper adds that despite the enormous sums he has secured in this way in the past twelve months Boley has always been hard pressed for money and was constantly seeking assistance.

Sarah Killed Her Cousin.

The coroner's jury yesterday released Sarah Hamilton from custody and relieved her of the charge of murdering her cousin. The killing was a sensational and peculiar one.

Stephen Hines, told a party of friends in Kingsville, a suburb of this city, that he was going over to see Sarah. A few moments after Stephen left, his friends heard the crack of a Winchester in the direction of Sarah's house, and running up they found Stephen dead in the yard. Sarah said she did the killing. She thought Stephen was a tramp and shot him because of his strange actions.

For some time past tramps have been annoying Sarah and only last Saturday night her husband had to drive three of them off with a Winchester. Sarah told the jury she heard some one knock at the door, and asked who it was, receiving no answer. Then she went back to the kitchen and got the Winchester. The front door opened and she raised the rifle and fired. The man screamed and ran into the yard, when she discovered it was her cousin, Stephen Hines. He died in a short time.

Savannah's New Waterworks.

Savannah is drinking artesian water again and much better water than before. Water was turned from the new works yesterday, only half of the wells being connected. The supply is not yet sufficient to supply the city, but it is hoped that by the end of the month, or enough for 100,000 people. The new waterworks cost nearly half a million dollars.

Knew He Would Die.

Fairburn, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—Mr. Middleton, of Fairburn, and a highly esteemed citizen of this place, died at his home on Thursday.

He was sitting in his chair before the fire, and before any one could reach him he was seen to fall in his chair and fell to the floor. He was a member of the Baptist church at this place; had been a member for many years. He was eighty-two years old, and had been a member of the church for many years. He was a Free Mason. He seemed to have a premonition that he would die before Christmas. He was a very kind and generous man, and was much loved by his family and friends. He was buried here yesterday afternoon by the Masonic fraternity.

There is nothing comparable to this medicine in cases of malarial fever, indigestion, nervousness and loss of strength.

Committed to Jail.

Corlinton, Ga., December 9.—(Special.)—Joe Baker and Clark Bryant, the negroes who are charged with having assaulted and robbed Charles W. Lee, had their preliminary trial today. The evidence against them was circumstantial but was sufficient strong to warrant their being held for trial. The sentiment here is that the men committed the assault.

Coming to the Front.

Cuthbert, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—The commercial importance of the city has been further recognized by both the railroad and federal authorities. The railroad has established a night telegraph office, and the federal authorities have added the further convenience to the traveling public by opening a night ticket office. The federal authorities have established an additional mail for the night trains, and what was formerly a great inconvenience to our city and traveling public and they are greatly appreciated.

As Cuthbert is one of the few points recognized by the railroad, between Savannah and Montgomery, it is all the more significant, as well as appreciated.

They found that the hen was being dragged under the pen by a big rat. The rat was on the floor of the pen, and he found and killed twenty-two large sized grown rats and something near 150 smaller ones, and still he said it was not much of a day for rats.

MARRIAGE BELLS AT FOLKSTON.

Folkston, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)—Marriage bells chimed merrily at Sycamore hill, the elegant and hospitable country mansion of Mrs. James S. Bally, on the most commanding bluff overlooking the Satilla river, on Tuesday at high noon when Rev. H. Dunlop united the lives of Mr. Tracy Acosta, of Blackshear, to Miss Cora B. Bally, second daughter of Mrs. Bally. The ceremony was performed in the parlors of the home which were decorated in various colors, displaying exquisite taste in floral arrangements. Misses Lizzie and Leora Bally, sisters of the bride, were the bridesmaids and they were beautifully attired, while Dr. A. B. McWhorter, of Waycross, did the honors of best man.

The bridal costume was lovely and the bride's bouquet was the choicest of the season. There were thirty-five relatives and friends present from all parts of the state and it was the verdict that none had attended a prettier wedding. The bride is a lovely young lady, and her husband is a worthy and successful man.

SOME WEDDINGS AND OTHER EVENTS

Which have been attracting the attention of the People of Georgia—Some People You Know.

The special feature of the exercises in the woman's building at the world's fair will be a series of monthly concerts. At these only young girls who are amateur possessors of talent and a high order of musical ability will be permitted to participate. The qualifications of those desiring to take part must first be tested. Each candidate will be rated on her merits. Mrs. W. H. Felton, who is Georgia's representative on the board, calls attention to this feature in the following letter:

Carterville, Ga., December 5, 1892. Editor Constitution: I desire to inform all musical amateurs in Georgia, who have been residents of America for ten years, and possessed of talent and a high order of musical ability, that there will be semi-monthly concerts in the woman's building, for which they may become candidates.

Only women and girls will be permitted to appear and every candidate will be rated upon her merits. Trios, quartets—vocal and instrumental—choral and orchestral arrangements will be eligible for consideration. All applications to be made to Theodore Thompson, musical director of the exposition. Respectfully,
MRS. W. H. FELTON,
Ladies Manager of Georgia.

The pupils of Professor William C. Rehm, Miss Carrie Mathews, Miss Anna Howard and Miss Julia S. Carter, will give a musical at the Washington Seminary on Friday, December 16th. Professor Rehm also intends to give a piano recital some time before Christmas at Miss Thorburn's school. The friends and patrons of both schools will be invited.

Mrs. J. N. Hale, of Couper, has been spending several days in the city. Mr. Hale is one of the leading clerks of the house of representatives.

The Monday Evening Literary Club will hold its regular meeting this evening at the residence of Captain E. P. Howell. The special feature of this evening's programme will be the part devoted to the writings of Henry Sullivan. The evening will close with a musical entertainment.

Miss Laura Kuperman, a charming and accomplished society lady of Macon, after spending several weeks as the guest of Mrs. Morris, has returned home, much to the regret of her many friends and admirers.

Crawfordville, Ga., December 11—(Special).—Crawfordville was the scene of a happy marriage on Thursday, the contracting parties being Miss Maria Farmer, a beautiful and accomplished young lady of this place, and Dr. Charles Blanchard, of Columbus, one of the prominent physicians. The bride looked charming in her beautiful bridal costume of cream silk. Rev. R. E. L. Harris performed the ceremony. The wedding party was very large and the celebration was a most successful one. The bride and groom left for their new home in Augusta. Their many friends wish them a life of happiness.

Outburst, Ga., December 11—(Special).—Outburst seems to be outdoing itself in its marriage question this season. Her society is very frequently having the monotony changed by the marriage of some of her popular young people. The latest addition to the list is that of Miss Annie Prior, of Marietta, who has been betrothed to a young man of the name of Mr. J. B. Douglas, of Marietta. The wedding ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Douglas, on Thursday, December 11th. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. E. L. Harris. The wedding party was very large and the celebration was a most successful one. The bride and groom left for their new home in Marietta. Their many friends wish them a life of happiness.

Next on the list is the marriage of Mr. T. Dwight Powers, of this city, and Miss Fannie Houston, of West Point, Ga. Cards are out announcing that this pleasant event will take place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon on December 14th at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Douglas, of Marietta. THE RATE WIDOW

Of the Editor of the Former Post-appeal.

MRS. CALDWELL AS A HIGH KICKER

Against the Rights of a Stepdaughter. Tears Up the Bill for Digging Her Husband's Grave.

The people of Atlanta have a lively remembrance of David E. Caldwell. He swooped down on this city from Kansas, became possessor of The Post-appeal, and for a while was a factor in local affairs.

In the course of time he disposed of his Atlanta interests and became editor and proprietor of The Daily Transcript, in Lexington, Ky.

A little later he died and that cleared out his active participation in mundane things. The widow in the case.

Mr. Caldwell, among other things, left behind him $40,000. He also left a wife and daughter.

It is the relations between these women bear each other which gives rise to the present sensation.

It seems that Mr. S. T. Campbell was appointed administrator of the estate. Mrs. Caldwell having filed a rule against him for not producing her husband's will for probate, he makes an answer, which is at once startling and brief.

In his reply Campbell states that he has a will made by Caldwell in 1883; but that there was a will made by the deceased in 1891, by which he amply provided for his daughter, Miss Helen; that Mrs. Caldwell unlawfully opened the box rented by the deceased from the safety vault company and abstracted the will of 1891 therefrom.

By this means Mrs. Helen Caldwell is cut off without a shilling, and all of the estate goes to Mrs. Caldwell. He is anxious to produce the will of 1891 in court if Mrs. Caldwell will surrender it.

Tore Up the Grave Diggers' Bill. The administrator says the estate is worth about $40,000, mostly all in cash. The respondent says that he is much troubled by the action of Mrs. Caldwell, who was unable to furnish him any information, and that when she could she would not. He says that Mrs. Caldwell is seeking to get the estate into her hands and refuses to pay any of the claims or debts against the deceased's estate, and when a bill of $5 for digging D. E. Caldwell's grave was presented to her, she tore it up, and after abusing the collector told him to find her dead husband if he wanted the bill paid.

Progressive People in Waycross. Waycross, Ga., December 11—(Special).—The city registration books have closed. The registrations were short of last year. Several deaths have been suggested. The present mayor and council have done a great deal for the advancement of Waycross during this year. An ordinance was passed in January fixing the license of agents and peddlers at $500. A well equipped fire department was organized. The city liquor license was fixed at $25,000. The city bonds for waterworks were disposed of, and the city will soon have an abundant water supply. An excellent police force has been maintained. Peace and order have prevailed.

Cuthbert's New Postmistress. Cuthbert, Ga., December 11—(Special).—Mrs. Alice B. Bussey has been appointed by the president postmistress for Cuthbert and her name sent to the senate for confirmation. Mrs. Bussey is the daughter of Postmaster B. F. Brimberry, of Albany, a prominent republican leader in the second congressional district and the supposed dictator of federal appointments for the district. Mrs. Bussey is the wife of J. B. Bussey, court stenographer of this circuit, a bold and fearless demagogue. Her petition was unanimously and generally signed by our citizens and her appointment will give satisfaction. Her appointment was occasioned by the removal of Duncan Jordan, white republican, and is for his unexpired term.

DID ADA REHAN PAY

To Be Immortalized in Silver as "Justice" at the World's Fair?

LILLIAN RUSSELL SAYS IT COST $10,000

But Lillian, of Broadway Fame, May Be Jealous—The Theater of Arts and Letters and Its Objects.

Dramatic circles, and for that matter other circles, in New York City are laughing over the speculation on a matter that very naturally affects Miss Ada Rehan, the charming and shapely leading lady at Mr. Daly's theater.

For several months all the leading ladies of the metropolitan playhouses have been clamoring for the honor of being immortalized in silver as "Justice" at the World's Fair.

Months ago it was announced that as immortality in silver as "Justice" would be erected at the fair, and a representative American lady was wanted to pose as the model for the blind goddess. Besides being a representative American lady another very important requirement in the model was a superbly proportioned form.

Tim and perfectly formed limbs, shapely and well rounded waists and stately and graceful poses were absolutely indispensable requisites in the fair model. At once the fortunate and highly honored lady would be an honor to be proud of. To be handed down to posterity and your grandchildren as "Justice" was a distinction that any ambitious lady might covet.

How many ladies hoped and secretly prayed that the honor would fall on their shapely shoulders. Naturally enough the gentlemen who had the bestowing of this honor in their hands looked to the stage for a model, for where can be found more exquisitely proportioned females than on the stage? The discussion and speculation as to who the favored lady would be went for a long while. Some of the announcement was heralded around that Miss Ada Rehan would be the model for the silver "Justice," upon whose pretty outlines millions of people would look during the fair. The papers joined in the congratulations to Miss Rehan, and said that so long as an advertisement could be made of her, she was the ideal.

It was also stated that the committee appointed to select the model had sent out sixty-eight measurements denoting physical perfection, and Miss Rehan had filed sixty-two of them. Of the remaining six she missed it only a fraction in each. She had laid all other applicants in the shade. She was physically perfect—a Greek goddess.

Miss Rehan was not insensible to the high honor that had been done her. It was a great compliment, and she was proud of it. She had been interviewed. Who would not want to see the woman who was such an ideal of physical perfection that she had been chosen from a great army of magnificent women for so distinguished an honor. No doubt Miss Rehan had the benefit of the measurements of such fame in increased honors. Anyway she had the deep personal satisfaction of feeling as all women feel when their physical charms are praised. She and her shrewd manager knew what the money value of the transaction would be, and they laughed.

But the other day Miss Lillian Russell, one of the other stars, and who has been charged, and an awful charge it is, of accepting the honor, had herself interviewed, and Miss Rehan and her manager woke up one fine morning to read something that made them sick. And this is what it was. Miss Lillian told the papers that if she had been willing to have been blest to the extent of $10,000 she might have been "Justice" herself, and had all the honors and emblems that went along with the job, which had made Miss Rehan so proud. This introduced what followed, for Miss Lillian remarked further that in plain terms she had been put up to the highest bidder, and that Miss Rehan had bid it in, but she, Miss Lillian, had been given the preference. She said the secretary of the committee had approached Miss Cora Tanquer and offered her the honor and after that had turned to her and said, "Miss Rehan has been chosen, but she is not willing to pay the $10,000 for the honor. She gave up the idea. Marie Tempest, the English girl, who was approached in the same way, but Marie being English would not entertain the notion for an instant of robbing some American lady of an honor, not even at the outlay of $10,000."

So to back up Miss Lillian, these two ladies who had themselves interviewed and told the whole story. It all came out in its ugly details, and Miss Rehan very wisely refrained from being interviewed. She will pose as the model for "Justice" but when the people who visit the fair next year look up at the magnificently formed woman they will think of how she came to be there, and think of what might have been if Alfy Fitty Lillian had consented to part with $10,000 of her stuff. But after all there's no going back on the fact that Miss Rehan is divinely fair and stately as a queen.

The authors of New England have hit upon a splendid plan of elevating the drama and redeeming the stage from the degrading influence of some of the latter day productions. They have formed what is known as the Theater of Arts and Letters. Its object is to be accomplished by the presentation of a series of wholesome dramas of a lofty literary character. These plays are to be written by members of the society and presented at the cost of the society. It is expected to be a losing venture, but whose benefit will be derived from it. The first of these plays will be put on at Proctor's on December 23rd, and is said to be the work of W. D. Howells, the Boston novelist. The authors of the plays are not to be made known until after they are produced. Several other plays will be put on, and the best results hoped for in the creation of a better taste for the drama among the metropolitan theatergoers, whose tastes have become vitiated by a diet of unwholesome shows. It is hoped that after the expensive experiment is over that it will leave a better taste in

New York people's mouths, and will lead eventually to the elevation of the stage.

Next week John Drew's company will give the one hundredth performance of "The Masked Ball," which is now the occasion will be given to each person present. "The Masked Ball" promises to be as popular as "A Trip to Chinatown," which is now just its fourth hundredth performance. To the success of the play Miss Maud Adams has contributed no less than Mr. Drew himself, the talented son of the only Mrs. Malaprop. Miss Adams is a modest little girl, yet in her role, but her name is on every body's lips.

Mrs. Bernard Beere, who came over to this country a few weeks ago to play quite a long engagement will return to England after the 21st. She has met with but poor success, although she came heralded as the English Bernhardt. It is stated that Mrs. Beere's failure is due to a number of factors. She has done well but has labored under disadvantages which she could not overcome.

The successful playwright is a lucky fellow. August Pitou told a Courier-Journal reporter the other day that Brockton Howard got $100,000 out of his "Shenandoah." August Pitou has made a fortune adapting French dramas. Bronson Howard's latest play, "Aristocracy," promises to pay him a handsome royalty. It will be noticed that the playwrights who deal with American life are most successful.

R. L. A. R. E. Graham in "Larry the Lord" Tonight. Two clever and successful comedians, R. E. Graham and Will Handwerger, will present tonight and tomorrow one of the best of the comedies which has ever come south. "Larry the Lord" is an excellent comedy, fine scenery, elegant costumes and two such actors as the leading men in the play, and according to our exchanges has been the result of their appearance ever.

We have no doubt that our theatergoers will be delighted with the attraction, "Larry the Lord," which was given week before last in New Orleans, and all the city papers agree on its excellence. The following notice from the Daily States had the following notice: "The opening last night of the Grand Opera House and jammed house in the comedy 'Larry the Lord' was a triumph for the comedians. The play was a success from the sign bearing the words 'standing room only' was placed in a conspicuous place at the entrance of the house."

"Larry the Lord" is a musical comedy and is made up of little everything that is catching, interesting, pathetic and amusing, and for these reasons proves a success from the rise of the comedy. The plot is pure and simple, consists of the desire of a man to marry a rich girl, and his title and wealth, rather than his own sweet self. The comedy is a success from the rise of the comedy. The play throughout is interspersed with songs, dances and funny sayings, which, as they are all new, make up a most interesting and amusing entertainment. THE MOBBLEY CASE.

After Five Tedious Weeks' Work a Mistrial the Result.

TWO HUNDRED AND THIRTY THOUSAND

Dollars Will Be Divided Out to the W. & A. Stockholders in Sixty Days—Judge Newman Has Given Such an Order.

The jury in the Mobbley case remained out twenty-four hours before the jurors could come to the conclusion that all that could be done was a mistrial.

It was just at noon on Friday that the case was turned over to the jury and the body sat upon it all the afternoon, and at night and morning Saturday with a mistrial as the result. Mrs. Mobbley was suing for the payment of a note for $12,000 against Pace and Adams, executors for R. G. Herbert, of Cedarhurst.

Herbert, it seems, was administrator of the property of Mrs. Mobbley, his niece, at the death of her father in 1852. This brought them in touch in a financial way, and during their business relations so Mrs. Mobbley claims, a note for $12,000 was given to her for her portion of the estate. The defendants on Saturday morning denied the note a forgery, the attorneys of the executors showing that the signature on the note indicated an effort to be exactly identical in every line and curve with that on Herbert's will.

The jury was six one way, half a dozen the other with the result stated.

A decision involving $230,000. Judge Newman on Saturday gave an order in answer to the petition of Julius Brown, executor for Joseph E. Brown and E. B. Stahlman, receivers of the Western and Atlantic.

When the old Western and Atlantic lease expired a number of the stockholders were dead and those remaining filed a petition asking that a receiver be appointed and that the affairs of the road be wound up and distribution made of any money that might have been left over in the general surplus.

Julius Brown, solicitor for the receivers, announced a petition that there was $230,000 over and above any judgment that might have been rendered in the case.

Judge Newman directs that the sum stated shall be paid to the stockholders on a pro rata basis within sixty days, dating from the expiration of the order Saturday.

The Registration Fee Reduced. The price for registering a letter, or any other mail matter has been reduced by a special order of the postmaster general. The change takes place on and after the first of next year; the reduction is 2 cents, making it 8 cents instead of 10 cents as formerly.

The order is called order No. 158 and is dated from Washington, December 6th, 1932. "It is hereby ordered, that from and after the first day of January, 1933, the fee for registering mail matter shall be 8 cents instead of 10 cents for every separate piece registered. Postmasters will therefore charge a fee of 10 cents, payable as now, for ordinary postage stamps in addition to the regular postage on each piece of mail matter presented for registration up to and including December 31, 1932, and a fee of 8 cents in addition to the regular postage on each piece of mail matter presented for registration on and after January 1, 1933."

All regulations of the post office department may be inconsistent with this order are hereby modified to conform thereto.

"JOHN W. ANIMAKER, POSTMASTER GENERAL, AND EVERYBODY SMILED."

Dan Daniels, Charged with Burglary, Attempts to Prove an Alibi.

And now comes the story of his friendship in black, a modern Damon and Pythias act. Saturday morning Dan Daniels, a negro boy, was placed on trial before Justice Landrum and despite the fact that he had been charged with burglary, he was bound over in the sum of $200 on his charge of burglary.

In some points the case was entirely humorous, particularly the evidence of two of Daniels' friends. "Until some little time ago Dan Daniels has been working for one of the local and a robber entered the Glenn residence and when he went out Dan was the loser thereof by a suit of clothes, an overcoat and a gold watch. Suspicion fell upon the negro boy who worked upon the premises, and that boy was Dan."

Detectives were put upon the case, and all the developments tended to throw the guilt upon the accused. On Saturday night, arrested upon the charge of burglary, Saturday morning Dan Daniels was accused, was taken before Justice Landrum, and when he was introduced by both sides. Mrs. Glenn testified that on the night of the robbery and caught sight of a negro going out of her room with a bundle, or the appearance of a man, and she and her witnesses swore that Daniels had told them what had been stolen before Mr. Glenn had even arisen.

Daniels' attorney then moved to dismiss the case and no country was made out of the case for burglary. Judge Landrum refused to do this, however, and the witnesses for the defense were introduced. One of the witnesses was Jim Jones, who swore that on the night of the robbery he and Daniels and a third friend had all gone to bed together at 10 o'clock, and that from then on there was no chance for Daniels to get out of bed without him knowing it, and that further, Daniels had been in bed next morning and left the room with him.

"Doesn't Dan have a peculiar way of sleeping?" asked the lawyer. "Yes, I believe he does," responded Jim. "Well, now is that how it is? 'Taint nothing' 'cept dat Dan allers puts his arms around me and goes to sleep. He can't do it way we sleep all at time. He can't do it 'cept 'less I knowed sumpin' 'bout it.'"

"Didn't you get up during the night?" cross-questioned the lawyer for the prosecution. "Yes, but sumpin' I got back to bed. I put my arms around him and he couldn't get up without me knowing it," said this in the most solemn tones.

The whole courtroom broke into a smile, and Justice Landrum's smile was one of the broadest.

Another friend, a room mate in fact, of Daniels, testified to the same facts, but Dan was bound over in the sum mentioned. He gave bond committment.

SOLD BOOZE ON SUNDAY. The Police Said a Sunday Blind Tiger and Arrest the Proprietor.

The police have not given up their fight against the lawbreakers of that class who sell Sunday whisky. They have special instructions to watch out for them and make cases. Through the work of the department during the past summer they have been thinning out appreciably.

Yesterday Patrolmen Barret and Moncrief, of the mounted squad, arrested Andrew Cushebury, a negro, who lives at 25 Victoria street, for selling whisky. He will be tried before the recorder this morning, and after being fined will doubtless be made to answer to the state courts, under the law requiring dealers in intoxicants to register with the ordinary of the county.

Y. M. C. A. Notes. The entertainment Friday night, by Miss Adelaide Westcott, was in every way a success. The audience that greeted her was large and select, and the frequent applause bespoke the appreciation and delight of the performance. Her manner and grace were most charming, and her impersonations were exquisite. She will be welcomed to the Gate City again by many who will sing her praises, and patronize her play.

Her. Mitchell will speak to the men's meeting this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. All young men welcome.

Regular monthly meeting of the board of directors this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Editor W. R. Smith, of the Newman Advance, has the sympathy of the Georgia newspaper men. He lost his office outfit in the recent fire at Newman and most of his household goods. Smith writes that his paper will be out again soon brighter than ever.

AN UNSEEN LOVE SCENE.

A gentleman whose name we withhold was walking along one of our best streets about 11 o'clock a few nights ago and stopped on the corner near a pretty residence to wait for a street car, which was about due. Like street cars sometimes do, it kept him waiting an unreasonably length of time. He had cultivated patience on this same corner off times before, and was somewhat hardened to it, so he deposited his avoirdupois on a water plug and was wondering if the car had already gone out, and the very thought of a long walk at that hour brought an involuntary sigh. At this moment his attention was attracted by the opening of a door and the low tones of a couple who were bidding each other a reluctant farewell. The porch was but a few feet from the pavement, but was inclosed with vines which shut off the gentleman on the corner from view. He was saying, "Dear George, you don't know how it does distress me that papa will not consent to it. You know he never did like you as well as I do. After thinking the matter over carefully I think I have a plan that will enable me to run him over to our side. We will try it as a last resort, anyway. You know papa is a slave to style, and you do not care much for style, and are not particular about your dress, therefore you do not meet his idea of a son-in-law. Now if you will buy a new suit of clothes from Lumpkin, Cole & Stewart the style it will give you will catch papa before he knows it."

THE Home Stretch!

Trade has been just as good as we could ask all this year. We are now nearing its close, and for the next two or three weeks we want trade to hum. With this end in view prices have been reduced on a great many styles of Suits and Overcoats for men and boys. We can please you with goods and prices.

George Muse Clothing Co. 38 Whitehall St.

For Christmas presents we have an immense stock of those inexpensive silver novelties which are always so acceptable.

Our diamond and pearl enameled Pendants and Brooches excite the admiration of all who see them, and the prices are surprisingly low.

In dainty Roman Necklaces with heart and enameled flower Pendants we have a choice line.

We have a large stock of New Designs in diamond jewelry, and our diamonds are all fine white stones.

A beautiful collection of choice Umbrellas and Canes with ivory, gold and silver heads.

Card Cases and Pocket Books in lizzard, seal and calf skins. A large selection at low prices.

Solid gold and gold-filled Watches cheaper than ever before and innumerable new designs.
